

GOVERNMENT COMPLIANCE

Hawaiian law Act 204 became law on January 1, 2016. It requires you, as vacation property owners, to:

- * Communicate the name and contact information of your local contact to your guests prior to arrival and post them prominently in your accommodations.
- * If you live "off-island" you are required to have an on-island Local Contact. You do NOT have to use a realtor or property manger as contact unless they are performing the duties for which a real estate license is required (generally, renting or managing the unit for you).
- * Post your Tax ID # on your web site advertisements such as VRBO and in your accommodations.

In addition, the following requirements continue to be in place. You are required to:

- * Obtain a General Excise Tax (GET) License.
- * Obtain a Transient Accommodations Tax (TAT) License.

(You can obtain both of the above by submitting Form BB-1 to the Hawaii Department of Taxation)

- * File your non-resident N-15 State Tax Return.
- * File GE-45 (General Excise) taxes quarterly or monthly as well as your Annual GE-49 form.
- * File TA-1 (Transient Accommodation) taxes quarterly or monthly as well as your Annual TA-2 form.

Rental By Owner Awareness Association

RBOAA's Mission

- To provide accurate information about Hawaiian vacation rentals to both property owners and Hawaiian legislators.
- To support the Hawaiian economy by ensuring that visitors have the same accommodation options as other major world vacation destinations.
- To provide Hawaii vacation rental property owners with information that will help them abide by local and Hawaiian legislation
- To help ensure that the rights of Hawaiian vacation rental property owners are not infringed upon in order to benefit other industry players.

WHY RBOAA?

Hawaiian vacation rental owners have been a part of the Hawaiian tourism industry since the 1970's and have long shared common interests such as a love of Hawaii and a desire to provide guests with a wonderful Hawaiian experience. The expansion of commerce over the internet has greatly increased the ability of many owners to manage their own properties.

Recently a few Hawaiian property managers and hotel owners began to argue that vacation property owners who rented their property directly to guests were creating unfair competition to their traditional vacation accommodation businesses. To support their case, property managers and hotel owners made unsupported allegations that owners who rented directly to guests were not paying Hawaiian taxes and that they were not treating their guests properly.

In 2012 they began to lobby legislators who introduced multiple bills intended to significantly curtail the right and ability of property owners to rent directly to guests.

These events were the catalyst for property owners to band together to form RBOAA as an organization intended to educate the public, property owners and the legislature about "rental by owner" and protect the rights of property owners.

In 2012, and every year since then, RBOAA has fought to counter proposed legislation introduced in the Hawaiian legislature. So far our efforts have been successful. In 2015, our members provided over a thousand letters in testimony for and against legislation that would affect our abilities to manage our own property.

While we have, through a lot of volunteer work, been successful at the state level so far, we do not anticipate that property managers and hotel associations will put up their hands in defeat. We expect that many of the future battles will continue to be fought at the state, county, and city level.
